

For Immediate Release
August 20, 2006

Virpus Networks, Inc (<http://virpus.com>), a Kansas City, Missouri based company with operations out of Dallas, TX and a leading provider in Virtual Private Servers, Dedicated Servers, Web Hosting and Reseller Hosting, today announces the release of its new look, featuring a new website design, logo as well as a new business model. In addition, Virpus Networks combined all of their services into one website, virpus.com, versus having each one of their services on their own websites (such as virpushosting.com, virpuservers.com, virpusnetworks.net).

Along with the release of their new site, and the merger of all their services, Virpus Networks launched a whole new VPS product line, Dedicated Server line and 'Reseller Hosting' line. The company also re-branded the commonly named services such as Web Hosting to 'Single-Site Hosting' and a Reseller Account to 'Multi-Site Hosting' which the company is hoping to attract the attention of more webmasters and developers to their customer base and to also make Virpus Networks stand out from other hosts who use traditional names to label their services.

"The recent changes here at Virpus Networks were well needed, and this is just a start to even more changes that will be happening which have been outlined in our revised business plan for the rest of Q3 and the all of Q4" says the company's CEO, Kenneth Odem.

###