

For Immediate Release
October 21, 2006

Virpus Networks (<http://virpus.com>), a Kansas City, Missouri based company with operations out of Dallas, TX and a leading provider in Virtual Private Servers, Web Hosting and Reseller Hosting, today announces the re-launch of its free trials program.

Virpus Networks offered free trials since its opening and discontinued it months ago to allow time to re-examine the structure of how the company was providing free trials. The company was also the first VPS provider to offer free trials on its VPS services. Virpus Networks' CEO, Kenneth Odem states that "We are proud of the re-launch of our VPS free trials program. We received a lot of feedback from it when we first offered it before, and it was prime to our business when we first began offering VPS solutions."

The Virpus Networks free trials program also gives users the opportunity to test out their applications and/or websites to make sure that a specific VPS plan will be fit for them and their hosting needs. It also gives the users a chance to get a feel for what Virpus Networks is about; providing a stable VPS solution with excellence in support yet at budget prices.

To learn more about Virpus Networks' VPS offerings, please visit <http://virpus.com/hosting-solutions/vps.html>

###